

LATE CLUB MEMBER, HIS SISTER AND HIS SECRETARY.

STARS IN HERSELF

Mother, Suddenly Insane, Throws Little One from Her Lap and Attacks Her with a Knife.

ALONE IN HOUSE AT TIME

Mrs. Johnson Turns Weapon on Himself, and Injured Daughter Tries to Stanch the Woman's Wounds.

Seized with a sudden fit of madness, which none of her relatives seem able to explain, Mrs. Catherine Johnson, of No. 1 East 11st street, attempted to murder her seven-year-old daughter, Alice, by cutting an artery in her right wrist yesterday, and then killed herself by cutting her throat and wrists.

When Mr. Johnson left the house, about ten o'clock in the morning, his wife was in apparently good health and spirits. She had not been ill and had never shown any tendency toward melancholia or mental depression.

The woman was devoted to her daughter. They were together in the dining room, the child sitting on her mother's knee, laughing and joking together.

Suddenly the mother threw the child to the floor. Then the woman seized a carving knife and drew the sharp blade across her daughter's wrist and throat. She soon fell to the floor unconscious.

When the child was found lying on the floor, a few minutes later, she was taken to the dining room to see what had happened.

With clothes the little girl tried to staunch her mother's wounds, at the same time growing steadily weaker from her own injuries.

Miss Julia Smith, a sister of Mrs. Johnson, called at this time and telephoned for an ambulance. The ambulance, however, Mrs. Johnson, then arrived and soon afterward the husband of the woman came in.

Both mother and child were taken to the Harlem Hospital, where the former died within an hour. The child probably will live.

Mrs. Johnson was thirty years of age. Alice was her only child. Her husband is at present employed by a large construction company. He was formerly secretary for the Building Department.

A week ago last Friday Johnson left the city on a vacation. He returned last Friday.

During the husband's absence, the janitor says, Mrs. Johnson had received bottles of brandy from a nearby grocery store. After Mr. Johnson had been away for a few days Mrs. Johnson had been seen by Smith, of No. 283 Pleasant avenue, who is connected with the Boiler Inspection Department, and Miss Julia Smith, her sister, learned of the daily delivery of the liquor. They went to the grocery store and asked the proprietor to stop sending the brandy to Mrs. Johnson.

Since that visit, which was a week ago, Mrs. Johnson had not been seen by the janitor nor any one else except the grocery clerk, who delivered his goods, succeeded in gaining admittance to the apartment, and the husband returned.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

While on the way to the hospital with the mother and child, the janitor said, Mrs. Johnson had been seen by the janitor, who had been told by the janitor that she had been seen by the janitor.

DAVID BRADLEY LEE

HITS BACK AT HER ACCUSERS

Mrs. Martin Bowers, Accused of Poisoning Her Husband, Attacks Brother-in-Law.

ILL WILL BETWEEN BROTHERS

Harry Bowers and the Poisoned Man Had Been at Odds for Four Years.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.] SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sunday.—A new theory in the Martin Bowers poisoning case is that Harry Bowers, brother of the dead man, and his wife may know more than they have already told. The police are investigating this feature of the case.

Mrs. Martin Bowers and her sister are under arrest on suspicion.

It is said the Bowers brothers had not been on good terms for many years. The former wife of Harry Bowers once threw pepper in the eyes of Martin Bowers and stabbed him with a hatpin.

There was a great deal of ill feeling at times between Harry and Martin," said Mrs. Martin Bowers. "I do not think they spoke a dozen words to each other in the four years preceding the death of my husband. When Martin was ill he asked me to send for Harry, and I did so. They were quite friendly then."

"Harry and Sadie Bowers wanted my husband to make a will. I said that if Martin died it would all come to me anyway, so why was the use. They insisted, but no will was made, so far as I know. I never found out what they wanted to do."

"Harry Bowers did drink some beer in our house one night and fell on the floor. He was not hurt, but he was very dizzy. I never thought of it at the time, but I think that is what he wanted to do. He wanted to make a will."

"The police are strong in the belief that the guilty persons are now under arrest. Patrick O'Leary, Mrs. Martin Bowers' friend, is still detained. The authorities think one of the prisoners will soon break down and make a confession."

It is stated that a notebook found in Mrs. Bowers' room has a page in it which was written a prescription for arsenic obtained by a woman in a laundry, whose name was signed to the prescription, says he did not write it.

AGED WOMAN DEAD

With White Hair, Well Dressed and Wearing Jewels, Body Is Found Near Somerville, N. J.

Dead in a ditch near the Central Railroad tracks, three miles east of Somerville, N. J., the body of a woman, aged about sixty-five years was found early yesterday.

The woman had evidently been struck by a train some time during the night and hurled into the ditch. Where the woman came from and what she was doing out in the storm last night in the lonely spot where she was killed is a mystery to the authorities.

She was of refined appearance, with snow white hair. She was well dressed in a gown of dark blue material and wore two diamond rings and a brooch.

The stone from one of the rings is missing. The only other articles found on her person were two rolls of hand made lace and several spools of cotton, which she carried put in a pocket of her dress.

The body was first discovered by the crew of a drill engine which arrived at Somerville at daylight.

Early this morning, which left New York at four o'clock yesterday morning, was ordered to pick the body up. On arriving at Somerville the body was taken to Johnson & Maxwell's Morgue.

It was at first believed that the dead woman was Mary J. Converse, a mysterious character who had appeared several times a year with a roll of money, which she carried in a pocket of her dress.

The police who have viewed the body state that while it bears a strong resemblance to the woman of mystery they are satisfied that it is another woman.

FALL, FIGHTING, TO THEIR DEATH

Two Striking Machinists Attack Non-Union Man on Ferryboat and Are Drowned.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.] WHEELING, W. Va., Sunday.—William Pratt and Anthony Holland, striking machinists, were hurled to death in the Ohio River at Belaire, Ohio, opposite this city, at midnight last night, when in a boat struggling with one of the non-union machinists from the Steel Trust's Riverside.

Three non-union machinists crossed the river to Belaire from Benwood in the evening. They were in the public park by a party of thirty strikers and fought sympathizers, who attacked them and finally chased them to the river front. The ferryboat was just leaving and out of the non-union men, Frederick Williams, Pratt and Holland, who began to pummel him.

The three men fought across the dock to the guard rail. Williams drew a revolver and fired several shots, but his assailants dodged in upon him. The man wrestled until their combined weight broke down the guard rail and all were thrown into the river.

Williams was discovered an hour later clinging to the ferry boat, and was pulled out. The river is being dragged for the bodies of Pratt and Holland.

ADELAIDE SAMSON

SEEKS AN ESTATE IN SEA MYSTERY

Oswego Man Wants Proof of Cousin's Death to Obtain $300,000.

SEARCH HAS BEEN IN VAIN

Next of Kin to Captain Givens, Who in 1889 Was Wrecked with Seven Hundred Passengers.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.] OSWEGO, N. Y., Sunday.—Through newspaper advertisement Bernard Givens, of this city, hopes to clear the mystery surrounding the death of his cousin, Captain George Givens, of Fort William, Scotland, who, it is believed, was lost at sea in January, 1889, and established a claim to rich estate. A search for many years, in which the efforts of the American Consuls in foreign lands were enlisted, brought no trace of the missing sea captain.

Captain Givens was a son of George Givens, a wealthy iron merchant of Fort William. Against the wishes of his father he embarked on a sea voyage before he attained his majority, and at the age of thirty he was captain of a merchant vessel sailing from Glasgow.

Captain Givens sailed from London in January, 1889, for Australia on a packet steamer with 700 passengers and a valuable cargo of merchandise. The steamer never arrived at its destination, and Australian authorities reported the ship wreck of the ill-fated steamer near the Solomon Islands.

The steamer Alameda arrived at San Francisco from Australia a year later, bringing pieces of the wrecked steamer. The news of his son's fate never reached Mr. Givens, who is now a widower, leaving an estate worth $300,000 to his missing son.

The estate was claimed by John Grimes, of Ardara, county Donegal, Ireland, who was supposed to be the nearest living relative of Captain Givens. Bernard Givens visited his boyhood home in Ireland ten years ago, and discovered that he was next of kin and heir to the Givens fortune. Mr. Givens, who is now a wealthy merchant in Ardara, is holding the estate in trust until the rightful heir can prove his claim.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

DAVID BRADLEY LEE

SEEKS AN ESTATE IN SEA MYSTERY

Oswego Man Wants Proof of Cousin's Death to Obtain $300,000.

SEARCH HAS BEEN IN VAIN

Next of Kin to Captain Givens, Who in 1889 Was Wrecked with Seven Hundred Passengers.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.] OSWEGO, N. Y., Sunday.—Through newspaper advertisement Bernard Givens, of this city, hopes to clear the mystery surrounding the death of his cousin, Captain George Givens, of Fort William, Scotland, who, it is believed, was lost at sea in January, 1889, and established a claim to rich estate. A search for many years, in which the efforts of the American Consuls in foreign lands were enlisted, brought no trace of the missing sea captain.

Captain Givens was a son of George Givens, a wealthy iron merchant of Fort William. Against the wishes of his father he embarked on a sea voyage before he attained his majority, and at the age of thirty he was captain of a merchant vessel sailing from Glasgow.

Captain Givens sailed from London in January, 1889, for Australia on a packet steamer with 700 passengers and a valuable cargo of merchandise. The steamer never arrived at its destination, and Australian authorities reported the ship wreck of the ill-fated steamer near the Solomon Islands.

The steamer Alameda arrived at San Francisco from Australia a year later, bringing pieces of the wrecked steamer. The news of his son's fate never reached Mr. Givens, who is now a widower, leaving an estate worth $300,000 to his missing son.

The estate was claimed by John Grimes, of Ardara, county Donegal, Ireland, who was supposed to be the nearest living relative of Captain Givens. Bernard Givens visited his boyhood home in Ireland ten years ago, and discovered that he was next of kin and heir to the Givens fortune. Mr. Givens, who is now a wealthy merchant in Ardara, is holding the estate in trust until the rightful heir can prove his claim.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

SISTERS PRAY AT BIER OF LEE

Countess von Walderssee and the Baroness Spend Two Hours Beside His Coffin.

WILL IS STILL IN DOUBT

If One Cannot Be Found Properly Will Revert to the Countess, by Her Mother's Wish.

Along with the body of their brother, the late David Bradley Lee, the Countess von Walderssee and the Baroness de Waechter-Eutenbach spent two hours in prayer yesterday morning. They went to the Stephen Morrill Burial Company and were seated in a private chapel, where, with where Mr. Lee's body lay, almost completely covered with roses.

Miss Adelaide Samson, who says she was Mr. Lee's secretary, said yesterday that she expected to serve the Countess in the same capacity.

Miss Samson and Dr. Goffe, who performed the operation upon Mr. Lee, are the only persons, except Mr. Rockwell, of Meriden, a cousin, whom the Countess and the Baroness have seen, all others, including the family of Mrs. Maxfield, Mr. Lee's sister-in-law, have been rigidly excluded from any intercourse with the visitors from Hanover.

Through one of these intermediaries it was announced yesterday that the Countess had suggested that the funeral services be held next Thursday at Grace Church, and that Mr. Lee's body be interred in Woodlawn Cemetery.

When she was a child and lived here the Countess went to Grace Church, and she said she would prefer to have the funeral services held there, but as the widow is expected to reach here in a few days, she said she would wait until Mrs. Lee arrives and approves them.

Dr. Goffe said that Mr. Lee left no child. He exhibited a cabinetman dated August 25, which read, "Will said on next testament," which was said to have come from the Countess. It was thought from this that Mrs. Lee might reach New York on Thursday, but should she not arrive until Saturday the funeral will be deferred for a few days.

By the will of Mrs. Ann D. Lee, his mother, who died in March, 1895, the Countess von Walderssee received all of the clothes, furniture, bric-a-brac, pictures and other personal effects in her estate. A search for many years, in which the efforts of the American Consuls in foreign lands were enlisted, brought no trace of the missing sea captain.

Captain Givens was a son of George Givens, a wealthy iron merchant of Fort William. Against the wishes of his father he embarked on a sea voyage before he attained his majority, and at the age of thirty he was captain of a merchant vessel sailing from Glasgow.

Captain Givens sailed from London in January, 1889, for Australia on a packet steamer with 700 passengers and a valuable cargo of merchandise. The steamer never arrived at its destination, and Australian authorities reported the ship wreck of the ill-fated steamer near the Solomon Islands.

The steamer Alameda arrived at San Francisco from Australia a year later, bringing pieces of the wrecked steamer. The news of his son's fate never reached Mr. Givens, who is now a widower, leaving an estate worth $300,000 to his missing son.

The estate was claimed by John Grimes, of Ardara, county Donegal, Ireland, who was supposed to be the nearest living relative of Captain Givens. Bernard Givens visited his boyhood home in Ireland ten years ago, and discovered that he was next of kin and heir to the Givens fortune. Mr. Givens, who is now a wealthy merchant in Ardara, is holding the estate in trust until the rightful heir can prove his claim.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Givens has spent nearly all of his savings in his efforts to obtain information regarding the fate of his cousin. Advertisements have been placed in the newspapers in Europe and the United States, but no one has come forward to strengthen Mr. Givens' claim to the estate.

Mr. Giv